HORRORFALL DEBUTS WITH “BLOODWORK EP” ON JUNE 15TH

FIRST SINGLE “NECROPLASM FIX” TO APPEAR ON SEASON PREMIERE OF HBO’S TRUE BLOOD SUNDAY, JUNE 13TH

Out of the darkest Los Angeles nights rises a new creative pact by veteran musicians Colin C. (Slighter) and John Girgus (Aberdeen, Languis, Spider Problem):
HORRORFALL!

With the DNA of electronic rock acts like Underworld and Primal Scream flowing through their veins, HORRORFALL’s Bloodwork EP taps into the revenant relevance of vampiric motifs in today’s entertainment, unleashing pulmonary pulsing beats drenched in sanguine synths and electronic fuzz.

Buzz about Bloodwork began circulating even before the blogs could get their first bite. HORRORFALL’s debut single, “Necroplasm Fix,” will appear on the season premiere of HBO’s True Blood on Sunday, June 13th, two days before the EP’s release.

ABOUT HORRORFALL:

HORRORFALL is an electronic rock collective featuring Colin C. and John Girgus, joined by guest musicians and artists on a track-by-track basis.

Introduced by mutual friend Paul Fischer (founder of Better Looking Records), Colin C. and John Girgus set out to build a creative environment where tensions between members could be eliminated. “We wanted HORRORFALL to be something where our individual roles are never defined,” muses Colin C. “And experimentation with other singers and musicians was a must. “
